Office Provost Marshal.
Annapolis, Md. May 1st 1863.

The following is a statement of Margaret Betherine Murphy:— My father was a member of Co. B, 98th Ohio Vols.; his name was Wm. C. Murphy; I dressed myself in men's clothes, and enlisted in the same company; the Captain of the company - Bang - enlisted me; my father was the Orderly Sergeant of the company; in a few days after I enlisted, I was detected by my laugh, and was suspicious of being a woman; my father reported to the Captain that he had examined me, and that I was a man; I served six months in the service and was part of the time a Corporal; I was ordered on duty, and in the meantime got drunk, and while drunk my sex was discovered; they cut my pants off, took my jacket off, dressed me in women's clothes, and put me in jail by order of my Captain; I served in Western Virginia; was in Wheeling jail three weeks; from there I was sent to Washington; from there to the Rebel liner; after arriving at City Point I was ordered to leave the boat and go ashore; I refused, cried, and tried to jump overboard and drown myself; I was taken off by a guard that night, and put in jail in Petersburg; kept there one night and was brought back to City Point under guard; I was sent to the Rebel liner on the suspicion of being a spy; never was a spy, never intended to be, love my country and the Union boys; at City Point I was confined in jail by the Rebels, and my hands tied behind my back, for cussing them; I was given up by a Rebel Captain - Thompson - to Capt. Mulford, to be taken back to the Union lines; Arrived at Annapolis this morning; Am sure no one in the Regiment knew of my sex except my father, until I was detected when drunk.

Statement of Mary Jane Green. - Was arrested in Braxton County, Virginia; in the eastern part of the county; the rebels were stationed about 30 miles apart; a body of Union troops was stationed between the Rebels; I was dressed sometimes in citizen's clothes and some times in women's clothes; I carried the mail from one Rebel Army to the other, going through the Union lines; I was arrested in men's clothes, the mail taken away from me, and I was confined in the Guard House seven weeks, then released; I told them I was a woman; they would not believe me; the day I was arrested, some officers wives were ordered to search me; which they did and made a report that I was a female; I was confined in the Guard House with men; they released me without taking the Oath of Allegiance, on the promise of going home and staying there; I did not stay home more than three hours before I was off again; my home was near Suttonsville; I went to Gauley Bridge to the Rebel army; I told them I had been taken prisoner; I dressed in woman's clothes, and passed the Union lines seven times before I was arrested the second time; I was arrested and taken to the Provost Guard House, at Suttonsville; I ~~got~~ escaped a day or two afterwards, but was rearrested; they sent me to Clarksburg, and kept me five weeks; from there I was sent to Wheeling; there I was released to remain in the city on parole; remained there about eight months; I got on the cars to go to Braxton county, and was arrested, being without a pass; I was confined in jail; was released on parole the second time; then I ^{started for} ~~went~~ home, having obtained a pass, and on the road I said a little too much in favor of the Rebels, and my pass was taken from me, and I was taken to a ~~Boarding~~ house and confined there; then I went to the office, gave an another name and got a pass; ~~I should~~ not have done it, only some citizen prompted me to do it; then I went home, and joined the rebel service, dressing in women's clothes, serving as a spy; they sent me to Suttonsville at six o'clock one morning, for the purpose of finding out how many Union troops were there; I passed all pickets except three; I went on a place called Wall's Point, as directed, where I could see all the troops; there were fifteen thousand Union troops there, commanded by Col. Tyler; I was arrested here, and taken back to Wheeling; Gen. Rosenkrantz released me; on the road home, about ten miles from Marton, I broke the telegraph wire, accompanied by about 20 guerrillas; I was arrested for breaking the telegraph wire taken to Wheeling, and confined over eleven months; I was sent from Wheeling to Washington, and from Washington to the Rebel lines; my baggage was taken from me, and I told them I would come back if they did not send my baggage; from City Point I went to Petersburg, stopped there for my dinner and went on to Richmond; stayed in Richmond one night, and then come ^{back to} Petersburg; from Petersburg

I come back to City Point; I went where I pleased, not being guarded; at Petersburg I stayed at the residence of Lieut. Smith; Lieut. Col. Bouse took me to City Point, and had me put on board the flag of truce boat, and I came back to the Union lines; I came for my baggage-trunk and bandbox; I would not of come North again if I had only had my baggage.

She states that she has serious objections to be searched as far as regards a mail, or letters upon her person. States she has no mail or letters about her. but objects to being searched.

The within statement I send for your information.
